Who's Mother?

Anjezë Gonxhe Bojaxhiu, born into an ordinary family in an ordinary city, went on to become a globally revered messiah.

Despite her obvious shortcomings, which would have otherwise destroyed the career of almost any other individual, the myth that surrounds her continues to be believed by wide sections of Indian society.

That she rose through the ranks of the Catholic Church isn't too much of a surprise. As recent events have demonstrated, the highest echelons of the Church are dominated by people of extremely questionable character. It is a den of paedophiles and criminals.

In 1994, Hitchens and British Pakistani journalist Tariq Ali wrote an extremely critical documentary on Teresa titled "Hell's Angel."

Mother Teresa - Saint or Sinner?
~ Loy Machado

In a Filmed Interview
Mother Teresa says with a smile
what she told a patient suffering unbearable pain
from terminal cancer:
"You are suffering like Christ on the cross.
So Jesus must be kissing you."
The patient's response:
"Then please tell him to stop kissing me."

She ignored Medical Aid & made others suffer, because she believed in the myth
of 'Christ's' Suffering & Poverty
Endorsed Dictators & Evil Tyrants
Accepted money from them as 'awards',
Kept misappropriated funds not for the poor
But to spread the Catholic Propaganda
Secretly baptized dying non-Christians,
Recycled Needles - without sterilizing them
Used them until they became blunt,
Disapproved Safe Sex &
Encouraged Unwanted Pregnancies
Even Prevented Abortion for Rape Victims.

To the Ignorant Community, she is a Saint.
But to the Educated Community, she is a Sinner.

The image is a black and white portrait of Mother Teresa. She is wearing her traditional white and blue striped headscarf and habit. She has a serious expression and is looking directly at the camera. The background is dark.

In India, she started a NGO called Missionaries of Charity that has long been accused of forcefully converting people on the pretext of social service.

The NYTimes says that patients were made to defecate in front of each other due to the primitive facilities in the hospitals. Medicines which expired 10-20 years ago were administered on patients, and faeces stained blankets were washed in the same sink as dishes and utensils.

Such was the condition of “hospitals” run by the Christian missionaries.

A 2013 study by the Univ of Ottawa was cited by HuffPost in an article about ‘Mother’ Teresa. This revealed that her ‘generosity’ were nothing more than an aggressive media campaign by the Catholic Church.

"Although she had 517 missions in 100 countries at the time of her death, the study found that hardly anyone who came seeking medical care found it there.

Doctors observed unhygienic, even unfit conditions, inadequate food, and no painkillers — not for lack of funding, in which Mother Theresa’s world-famous order was swimming, but what the study authors call her ‘particular conception of suffering and death’.

The sadistic history of Teresa doesn’t end here, with the Washington Post reporting that dying patients in hospitals run by the missionaries were forced to convert to Christianity before they died.

Teresa had made a business out of charity, and even after her death the Missionaries of Charity has been under public scrutiny numerous times, with the most recent being a human trafficking scandal that was exposed in 2018 by law enforcement agencies.
