@SirJambavan The number of murtis hidden in wells, secret rooms & in soft soil (near riverbeds ■) to protect them from iconoclasts (butshikan) tells such a story of stoic heroism of our ancestors.

We should stand on the shoulders of such giants instead of wheedling/groveling for approval.

@hamsanandi @SirJambavan Let's make a list?

I imagine the karmic balance sheets of all the brave atmas who undertook such heroic acts of protection & preservation will have had a huge inflow of credit with such finds. Their present-day incarnations might suddenly feel very blessed. ■ <https://t.co/TgOVwzvc9l>

A Sufi Dargah in Kashmir was dug for renovation.

Under the Dargah, huge sculptures of Shiva and Durga have been "accidentally" found.

Is anyone surprised?

How many more Dargahs must have Hindu Gods under their feet? pic.twitter.com/hB2oC0oAB2
