My mom doesn't think she has a story to tell. She's worked as an RN for almost 50 yrs. She's seen it all. Working the pandemic changed her. You can physically see it has taken its toll on her. She wants to speak out but doesn't think anyone would listen.

What do you all think?

I keep telling her that now is the time to expose the Healthcare system for what it really is. It's no longer patient care, it's a business. So, part of my page is going to be information from her. She's struggling to retire. She was a single mom of 2.

She puts everyone above herself. She's saved countless lives. I'm going to use my SM influence to help her in any way I can! I ultimately want to be able to pay off her mortgage but I have a ways in that one. For now, I'll just let her vent through me!
