1/ I am writing this in actual shock. I should not be shocked but I am. Reached out to a girl I worked with in Russia to see if she was ok. Anyone that wants ANY insight into how the average Russian citizen is thinking, you HAVE TO READ these messages from her. Propaganda is the

2/ scariest form of war these days. I'm even sitting here asking myself if I've been fed propaganda regarding this war. I thankfully am able to critically think and challenge people's words THANK GOD but this Russian has no ability to critically think

3/ it started out with a reach out to her via email from me bc I was genuinely curious how she felt about all this and wanted to see if she was ok

Stephanie)))) good day!! Thank you so much for your thoughts about me. All is good, I'm okay.

Everything went up in price by 30%. But we don't lose heart)) nowhere to go. Nationalists in Ukraine have been killing our brothers and theirs for the last 8 years, so we need to protect them.

How are you doing? Is everything alright?
There is my daily mobile (for telegram also)

all. Ukraine, under the auspices of the United States, threatened Russia with a nuclear strike, they do not have nuclear weapons at the moment, but they have the potential to create such weapons in two months, and the United States is interested in sponsoring this with money. Why it's so? Because nuclear strike from USA flies to Russia during 30 minutes and Russia will have time to protect from it by the same strike. But nuclear bomb from Ukraine goes to Russia during 3 minutes and we will be too late. Biden told about nuklear strike, he want to push this button 😃😨 and it's not a secret. So we all need to say a big thank you to Putin for the fact that, having become a "shame" for the whole World and not being afraid to be left without the support of the whole World, he saved this world from nuclear strikes and we are now alive and not exposed to radiation. I'm sorry that you...

By the way, this man looks like a Ukrainian bum who collects bottles. Without tooth. Not a single Russian military man looks like that and will not speak like that. This is a clear fake and staging. Now there are performances and many disinformation all the time. Russia has been isolated and nothing further prevents people from talking and clipping videos that people fantasize about on a Russian theme

Hey Stephanie! Thanks. We have the Internet))) We are not savages. And we can choose videos on YouTube, both European and Russian. War is very painful, bad and no one needs it. Moreover, part of the Ukrainian blood flows in my veins, just like the Russian one. But, unfortunately, no one hears Russia and our President. At first, almost everyone at my job was against him and his decision, everyone felt bad. But as we began to understand what was happening and the reasons, most of our country began to believe in him again. We watched European and American videos that say that our state is pouring into our ears, that there is nationalism in Ukraine, and that it's not. But America also pours the same information into your ears, and you have no other. I don't know this man in the video you sent, and what circumstances forced him to change allegiance to the state. Could be life threatening, most likely. After all, he is sitting at an official press conference and it is unlikely that he will ever have the courage to say: Guys, all of you here don't know the truth !! It's really not what you're told!! (They simply won't even listen to him and will tear him to pieces right there, at this press conference). And he is ashamed, because he is in the minority there, that is, alone, and everyone stands and hates him. He
