Changdev was a Yogi who had achieved several siddhis. He had defied death 42 times using his siddhis & hence lived for 1400 years.

He liked being respected by people.

श्री संत चांगदेव महाराज चरित्र

One day he came to know about Sant Dynaneshwar. He wondered why such a young boy like Dynaneshwar was getting so much attention.

Slowly, he started feeling jealous of Dynaneshwar and his increasing popularity among people.

Muktabai, Dnyaneshwar's sister responded to Changdev saying, "Only a sant can understand a Sant. Even though your age is 1400 but you are still as blank as your letter". Reading this Changdev decided to meet Dnyaneshwar himself.

Changdev had developed pride due to his extraordinary achievements. He came to visit Dnyaneshwar with pomp, riding a tiger, wielding a serpent as a whip.

Dnyaneshwar was sitting on a masonry wall with his siblings, when he came to know about Changdev's arrival.

Dnyaneshwar thought that he should personally welcome & honor Changdev.

He immediately instructed the wall to take them to Changdev. The wall started moving.

When Changadev saw this, he was convinced of Dnyaneshwar's supremacy.

Changdev understood about his limited powers. He was able to control only the living beings, whereas Dnyaneshwar was able to control even the material objects. He immediately got down and bowed down to Dnyaneshwar and his siblings.

But Muktabai's words had a great effect on Changdev and Changdev could eradicate his weakness through intense sadhna.

Changdev wanted Dnyaneshwar as his Guru, but Dnyanoba said that Muktabai was the right spiritual guru instead of himself.

From this point on, Changdev took Muktabai as his spiritual guide, and many references to Muktabai can be found in the Abhangs that he wrote.

The Parabrahman had selected a Guru for Changdev via this incident.
