@BrianFeroldi

If you buy individual stocks, you MUST watch their earnings

Here are 9 FREE investing tools that are massive time savers:■

1. What companies are reporting this week?

@FINVIZ_com makes it easy to find out

Screener → Earnings Date --> This Week

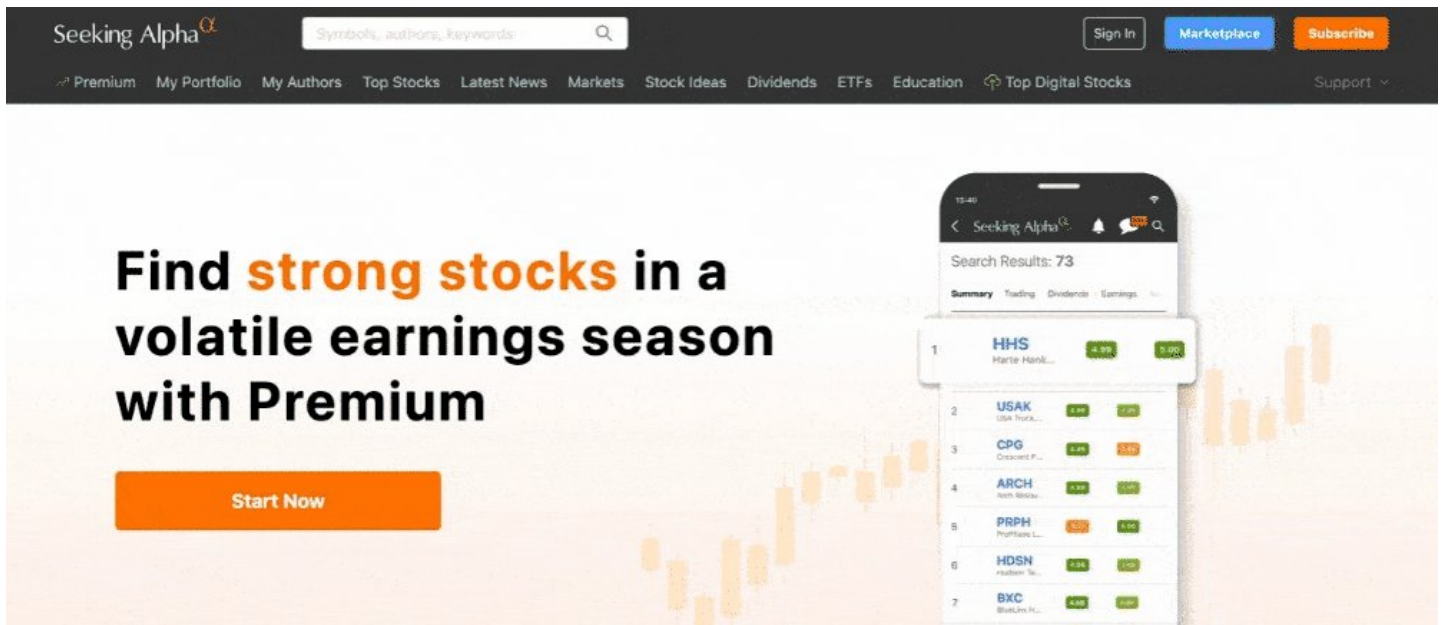

I like to sort by market cap

2. What numbers is Wall Street expecting?

@SeekingAlpha's earnings section has TONS of great information

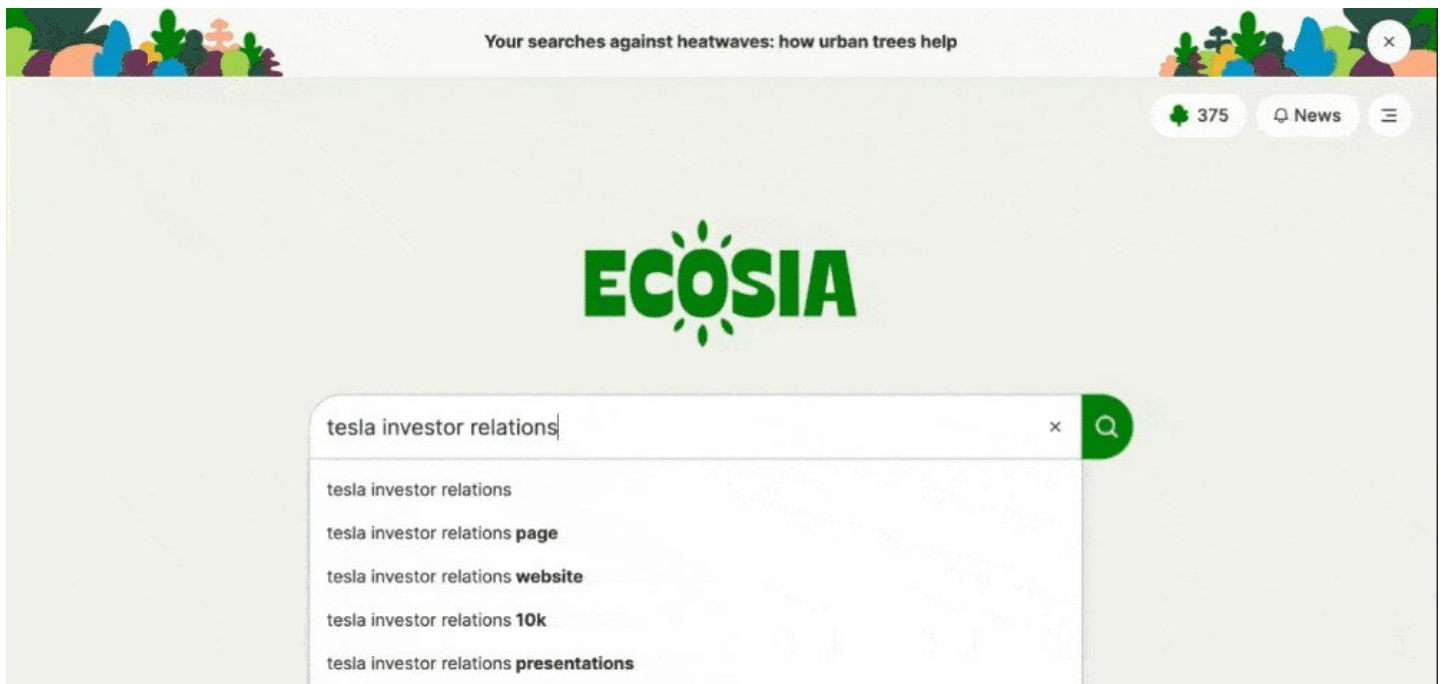

Ticker → Earnings → Upcoming Quarter Earnings

3. How do I find the earnings?

Search the company's name + "investor relations"

Companies like $TSLA provide presentations, webcasts, earnings releases, and more

4. Prefer to listen to earnings calls on the go?

@Quatr_App makes it easy

Their free app allows you to pause, rewind, & speed up the call -- a HUGE time saver

5. Want to read the transcript?

@theTIKR has TONS of free transcripts from earnings & investor meetings

Ticker → Transcript → Most recent

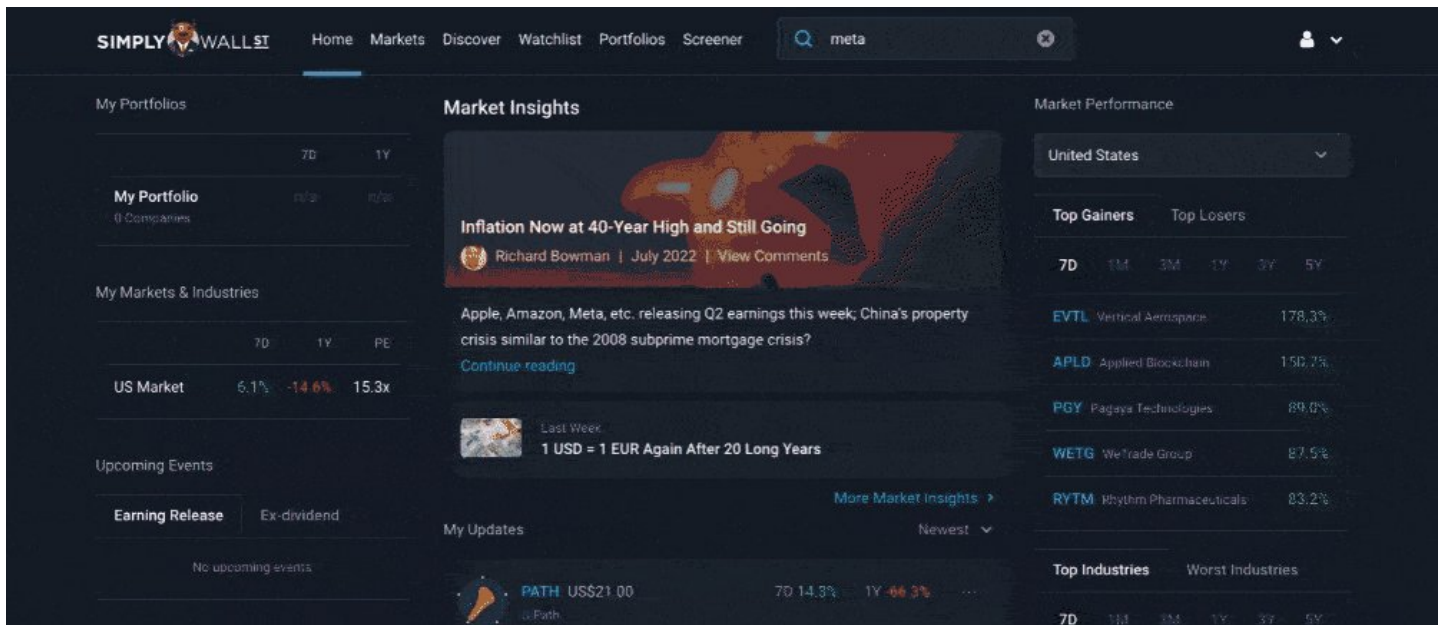

6. What's next for the company's financials?

@simplywallst has a cool visualization section

You can see expectations for growth in revenue, net income, free cash flow, and more

Enter Ticker --> Future Growth

7. Prefer Twitter?

These accounts share useful earnings information:

@Brian\_Stoffel
@eWhispers
@StockMarketNerd
@WOLF\_Financial
@RihardJarc
@OphirGottlieb
@TMFJMo
@Matt\_Cochrane7

8. Prefer video summaries?

My YouTube channel is here to help

We tell you everything you need to know in <10 minutes

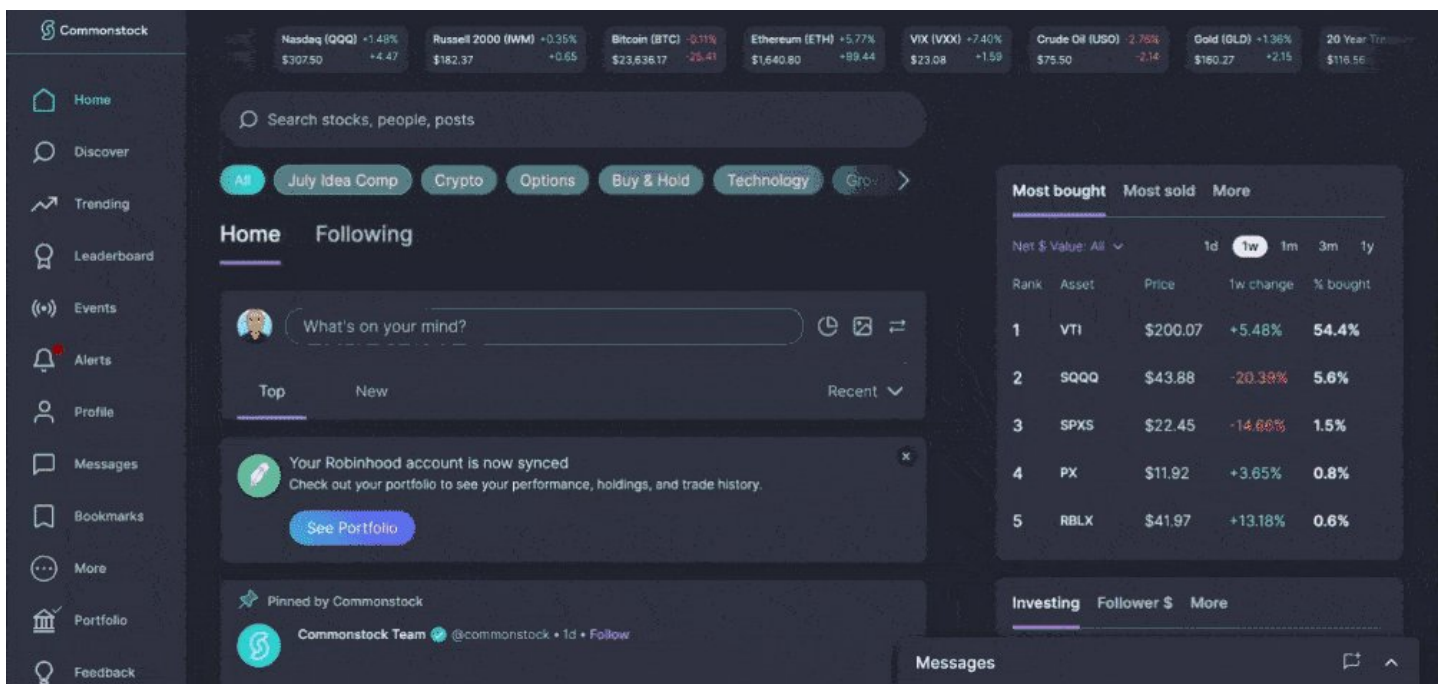

(Just click the "earnings" playlist)
