First the Hill/Cook, now this. Folks, they are aware they are losing or have already lost the House. The last big vote suppression push is on.

Yesterday, two NC polls basically put all the "at risk" NC seats out of reach.

Before that, TX and OH's vulnerable seats were pretty much off the board (Sessions is ahead but close).

NY now down to two vulnerable seats with the R leading in one. Both are red.

3) UNLIKE THE LIBS, I will tell you . . .

I.

Can.

Be.

Wrong.

But I'm not seeing a DemoKKKrat takeover of the House. At most I have them with 19 flips---but that is really stretching it and that's them running the table.

4) Meanwhile, we had news of a D-R potential flip in AZ1, where Wendy Rogers has gotten out to a surprising lead.

This goes along with the expected two flips from MN. There are at least two others out there, possibly three.

5) Meanwhile, in the world of real voting, in blue Montgomery Co., OH we have the following in absentee balloting:

R=11,041, D=7,087, I/U=12,609

Well, you say, all those indies may vote D.

They didn't in 2016. Based on 2016 votes and voting history of EVERY SINGLE HOUSE . . .

6) We have:

Rs 27,895 (57%)

Ds 20,977 (42%)

when unaffiliated are estimated based on voting history and location.

Oh, this also would, if I have the numbers right (and am checking) ALREADY, after one week, beat the total absentee "turnout" for 2016 by 3,000 ballots.

7) I repeat, this is very early, but this is a BLUE county that went for Bill Clinton 2x, Gore, Kerry, Zero 2x . . . and Trump.
