This tweet may slightly be off tangent and there may be outage; that doesn't mean one can't express what one feels about issue(s).. I've divided it into 3 parts - part 1 is about the outage at twitter - on them blocking Donald Trump- of these I'm astonished at some big handles ..

2. How many of them have read the rules/regulations as expressed by twitter - whether it's legally tenable to the law of the land is a different question - Trump himself , when his personal account got suspended used the id of Potus - all his noise could've been made in that id .

He fell into the trap well laid by the opposition , because he used his emotional quotient rather than his wisdom. Period. There's no reason claiming otherwise or using it as a comparative narrative - Eos; moreover, the unity among luteyins and the left , obnoxious they're, the RW lacks it - RW fights among themselves and more the popular you're (I'm sticking to that definition by twitter standards), to me they're just another user of SM. The kind of reporting they do , and the alogrithm built in, suits them, do the RW ever done that on a single account ?

NO being the answer - why are we cribbing ? Part 2 is even more sensitive - look at the peacefuls, look at the white coats, do the warring Hindus - do we have the unity - we don't - when the cause is common, whether it be temples or any social issue, including the #DikkiSonas,

The narrative of Hindus is lopsided - either they're in camp A or B or C and the issue gets buried; let's not deny all these and camaflauge it with lame duck excuses. Most of us are that when a sitting legislator requests audience with a pontiff of a mutt, it's never refused , the head of Mutt is obligated to meet them - we are aware of this , but in SM we need to portray ourselves as warriors - amongst all here , me included ,how many are aware of ground reality ? An honest assessment on this - by the self - gives answers - we refuse to do that. Any

SM can only play a catalyst in opinion creating - it's how positive we are to the cause that yields results in the ground - fun and Memes, are good creative energy - that's all. Nothing more will come out of it. Let's begin to think in terms of pushing

aside our personal ambition in favour of a common cause for Hindus ,perse, and watch the difference; - Part 3 is about our Honourable PM, every Tom , Dick and Harry loves to tag him and expect him to act on it immediately- we are also aware that it's not going to happen. What's the percentage of people Here , who claim to have given BJP 303 - your one vote in your constituency , if it had a candidate from BJP and if you had voted , among the many - and the candidate had won, then your contribution is 1/303; if he/she had lost the claim then is 0/303. None of us individually the 303, a mandate given by people , as though it was that of one individual - if so then, as one who led the battle , the credit goes to Nammo only and not any of us. I see learned, at times cultured , but most of the time biased , beyond reasoning making outlandish statements as though , he's unfit - ground rule number one in politics is to take the people with you , and that I personally feel is being done and more will come - it's only last 7 years this cribbing - where was this outrage earlier ? The SM did exist then too! Instead of fighting among Themselves RW must stand on a single platform . Of late,I see one portal doing a fairly good job, and I'm content with that. People ,get to the reality - the division among RW is the success of the luteyns/leftists and others. Start thinking and get the act together .- #JaiHind
