11. Biden reveals all pre-election bluster about stopping Covid was nothing but politically motivated lies.
"…there's nothing we can do to change the trajectory of the pandemic in the next several months."
Of course, this has been known for a year. Biden advisor Michael Osterholm:
1/31/2020: "Once coronavirus starts to spread, there's no stopping it until it's done." Center for Infectious Disease Research and Policy's Michael Osterholm, PhD, argues coronavirus will not be able to be contained and that within months the world will become like China is now. Evidence is it can be spread from asymptomatic people. What we don't want to do is overreact and be panicky. Before the lockdown, 5m people of the 65m Wuhon area fled the city. 7. Amazon offers to assist Biden Admin in distribution of COVID vaccine. Did Team Biden conspire with Amazon to not make this offer to Trump Admin? Was this payback for not getting the Gov't cloud contract?

Meanwhile, President Trump, angry over critical reporting from the Bezos-owned Washington Post, has repeatedly criticized the company, accusing it of everything from evading local taxes to taking unfair advantage of the U.S. Postal Service. The conflict reached a new peak in January, when Amazon filed a formal complaint over the Department of Defense's decision to award a $10 billion cloud computing contract to rival Microsoft. Amazon Web Services chief Andy Jassy told CNBC's Jon Fortt at the time, "When you have a sitting president who's willing to be very vocal that they dislike a company and the CEO of that company, it makes it difficult for government agencies, including the DoD to make objective decisions without fear of reprisal."
