Trump's doctor: "This morning, the President is doing very well."

Conley: "the team and I are extremely pleased with how the President is doing." Says that Trump's symptoms are now improving.

Second doctor says that President's kidney function, heart function are both normal. Says that he's not on oxygen and in "exceptionally good spirits." Says that Trump said "it feels I could walk out of this today." Says he's walking around the medical unit.

Doctor is repeatedly asked about whether Trump is on oxygen. Says he's not on oxygen "now" or "today". Sidesteps question about whether he's received it up to now.

Doctor says "since Friday morning" Trump hasn't had a fever

Doctor says he won't go into specifics about potential lung damage.

He keeps refusing to answer whether at any point Trump has been on supplemental oxygen.

This is odd. The doctor is talking about being "72 hours into diagnosis"- it's Saturday morning on the east coast. That would put diagnosis Wednesdayish. Trump didn't announce his positive test result til early Friday morning...

Repeatedly asked about oxygen: says he wasn't on oxygen today, not Thursday and not oxygen at the hospital. Which implies perhaps he was at the White House. Conley was certainly evasive about this point.
